The IOSH South Cumbria and North Lancashire Branch is pleased to announce its annual seminar. The focus is on overcoming the challenges posed by noise, confined spaces and HAVS.

Event overview

Joining together with the South Cumbria Occupational Health and Safety (SCOHS) Group again, and taking place at the lovely Netherwood Hotel in Grange-over-Sands, we hope to continue on the success of this annual event and provide a great learning experience with the vital aim of making a world of work that is safe, healthy and sustainable.

What's in it for you?

This event is being run to raise awareness of the need for employers to have effective management and training strategies to ensure that their employees are protected from occupational health issues, and can come to work knowing their welfare is the top priority.

You can expect to develop an improved understanding of identifying and solving challenges in the workplace around HAVS, the requirements of health surveillance, managing workplace noise and working in confined spaces.

Who should attend?

This seminar will be of interest to all managers, supervisors, union representatives, small business owners and trainees from a wide range of organisations, as well as safety professionals, occupational health nurses and safety trainers.

About SCOHS

SCOHS was founded in 1951 as a voluntary, self-help, health and safety forum that helps organisations keep abreast of the latest health and safety legislation. In 1989, SCOHS and the local IOSH Branch agreed to hold joint meetings as a more cost-effective way of helping members.

What you need to know

An exhibition will be held at this event. If you or your organisation are interested in exhibiting your products or services, please contact Ben Pollard, Events Co-ordinator, on +44 (0)116 257 3137 or email ben.pollard@iosh.com.

As with all IOSH events, any value gained from attending this event can be recorded in your CPD portfolio.

If you have any questions about the event, please email Ben, who will be able to assist.

The day will include lunch and refreshments.
